Dear Mr. Normandeau,

We at Redwood Technologies LLC have been using the Moleculoc product for about 4 months now. We are extremely satisfied with the product and how well it stands up to the spills and abuse that we put it through. We use it around our CNC machine in the Moleculoc socks. The socks help contain and soak up any lubricant that may happen to leak or spill out of the machine during operation or cleaning out of the machine. We also use it on other spills around the shop that include ink and oil spills. We are very pleased with the way the product performs and holds up to the very harsh materials especially our coolant, which will take the paint right off the floor if it sits for more than 1 hour! Moleculoc is the first product that we have found that successfully locks in the coolant and leaves a nice, clean floor after a spill.

Sincerely,
